SOLACE GOT HERE TODAY

ARRIVED EARLY FROM 'FRISCO WITH SOME MAIL—HAS STORES FOR FLEET—LOST HER ANCHOR.

The naval transport Solace, Captain Singer, arrived off the port early this morning from San Francisco. The vessel arrived a day earlier than the postal authorities had been expecting her.
She left San Francisco the afternoon of December 15. She did not bring five days' later mail, however, as only 51 bags of mail were put aboard her. The majority of the mail is aboard the S. S.
Alameda which is due tomorrow morning from San Francisco.

The Solace experienced good weather.
She encountered a heavy swell for the first three days after leaving San Francisco but the remainder of the trip was pleasant. The vessel sighted the light of a steamer off her port bow on December 20 in the morning and the afternoon of the same day a bark standing north was sighted.

The Solace lost her starboard anchor while coming to the Pacific Mail wharf this morning. The order was given to drop the anchor so that the vessel could be swung around and brought to the side of the wharf. The chain snapped about a couple of fathoms from the anchor head and the anchor tumbled into the bay. Efforts will later be made to recover the anchor.

The Solace brings between 500 and 600 tons of ammunition and ships stores for the American fleet now in port. These stores will be transferred today. On the vessel are 401 enlisted men, 45 marines, 2 officers on active duty, connected with the vessel and 12 officers on temporary duty.

The Solace brought several passengers for Honolulu among them being Naval Carpenter B. D. Pender, wife and child.

Among the officers on the vessel is Chaplain J. F. MacGrath, who is to report to Admiral Evans for duty. Chaplain MacGrath has been in the service three years, but has never been to Honolulu before. He has been in Asia Minor and Europe on naval duty.

The Solace will remain several days in port. The following is a list of
